COMPARING YOUR ELECTRIC CHOICES

There are a lot of rates, offers, programs and even incentives involved in making an energy choice. This fact sheet from the Office of the Ohio Consumers' Counsel (OCC), the residential utility consumer advocate, provides information to consider when comparing a marketer or aggregator's energy offer.

Price to Compare

The Price to Compare is the amount the electric company charges for generation and transmission of electricity. To save consumers money, a marketer must offer a price lower than the Price to Compare. Refer to several bills to calculate an average before comparing with a marketer or aggregator's offer.

The Price to Compare does not include distribution costs, which consumers continue to pay to their local utility even if they choose a marketer.

What do these rates mean?

The rate offered by marketers and aggregators will either be higher or lower than the Price to Compare. It will also be either a fixed or variable rate.

Fixed Rate: This is the price per kilowatt hour that will remain the same throughout the contract period.

Variable Rate: This is the price per kilowatt hour that can change month-to-month. Consumers should ask how often a variable rate is subject to change. Marketers must explain the factors that cause the variable rate to change.

Hybrid programs include a variable rate for a period and a fixed rate for the remainder of the contract period. Other hybrid programs charge one rate during the winter (November-April) and another rate during the summer (May-October).

Promotional Offers

Some marketers offer discounts or incentives to enroll. Consumers may be offered a rate discount, rebate or cash back incentives. Other incentives may include shopping and dining rewards, gift cards and fuel rebates. The value of the incentives should be accounted for when estimating how much money could be saved, if any, by choosing a marketer.

CONSUMERS' FACT SHEET

Marketers may also offer a percentage off the Price to Compare. While the discount percentage may remain the same, the price of electricity could change and raise or lower the price consumers pay for service.

Consumers should also be aware of “teaser” rates that offer a percentage off the Price to Compare for a very brief period, such as 1-3 months, and transition consumers to a higher, fixed rate for the remainder of the contract period.

Making your choice

Visit the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio’s energy choice website, www.energychoice.ohio.gov, to compare rates between marketers. Visit the OCC’s website, www.occ.ohio.gov, and look for fact sheets about “Energy Choice 101,” “Comparing Your Natural Gas Choices” and “Consumer Protections in Energy Choice.” There are also OCC web pages devoted to comparing your natural gas and electric choices.

Customers should remember that the price to compare varies from utility to utility and month to month based on the amount of electricity used. Review previous bills to determine what the average price-to-compare may be and if there are savings by switching to a competitive supplier for the term of the contract being considered.
